

Homeland Security

Principles of Preparedness for Agroterrorism and Food Systems' Disasters

Presented by Western Institute of Food Safety and Security (WIFSS), University of California, Davis in conjunction with the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, and co-sponsored by the California Regional Community Policing Institute

When: Thursday, June 18, 2009
Registration at 8:00 a.m.
Workshop from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Where: Northern California Regional Public Safety Training Authority
3720 Dudley Blvd., McClellan, CA 95652

Fees: Free of charge (catered lunch included)

Contact: David Goldenberg (530) 757-5712
dgoldenberg@wifss.ucdavis.edu or Maria Vicino (530) 757-5773
mvicino@wifss.ucdavis.edu

Registration: <http://wifss.ucdavis.edu/agroterrorism/classes/classesbydate.php> or email: mvicino@wifss.ucdavis.edu
Space is limited, so early reservations are recommended.

This training will help build prevention strategies for local communities and will prepare response teams to evaluate overall risk of an intentional attack on our food supply, the economy and the agricultural environment.

CONTENT WILL INCLUDE

- Principles of preparedness
- Intelligence gathering networks and evaluation or risks
- Weapons of mass destruction and methods of dissemination
- Hardening targets and enhancing surveillance response teams
- State and Federal agencies' roles, reporting responsibilities and communication
- Principles of biosecurity for agriculture and food systems

SUGGESTED ATTENDEES

- Emergency responders, supervisors and managers; law enforcement officers, fire/rescue, EMS and OES
- Federal, state and local public health agencies
- Emergency planners
- Elected or appointed public officials
- Agriculture industries, including cultivation, processing, distribution, storage, transportation, and veterinarians

United States Department of Homeland Security does not allow non-citizens to take this course.